Self Defense is Broun's Plea to Murder Charge

F. A. Broun, former convict, charged with the murder on March 9, of James Perry another ex-convict, went to trial yesterday. He was defended by Attorney Francis Finnegan, appointed by the court. District Attorney Wright and Deputy Robert Tharp conducted the prosecution. Broun sprung a surprise by with drawing his plea of not guilty by reason of insanity.

Broun was the last witness of the day. He stated that Perry had run back into the shack on the evening he was killed, and that Broun thought he had gone for a pistol and immediately shot him. Broun stated that Perry had a revolver, but no evidence was introduced to corroborate this statement. Broun's defense was along the line of self defense.

Witnesses called by the prosecution were Sheriff George Carter, Deputy Sheriff Jack Nettle, Ray Turner, another habitant of the "jungles" near Grass Valley, where the murder occurred, Herman Wolder, and Dr. A. H. Tickell.

Dr. J. R. Bell, dentist, testified regarding dental work done for Broun, as a result, Broun claimed, of having had a fist fight with Perry sometime prior to the killing.

The jury sitting in the case consists of Frank D. Carson, Lorraine A. Keast, Arthur Dowdell, Jos. A. Stenger, Ralph Leonard, Will D. Woods, Henry Webber, Dave Binkleman, Dudley Dunlap, William Uren, Persia Bennetts and Herman Essac.

PENNSYLVANIA SHAFT CLEARED FOR DEEP WORK

Rehabilitation of the Pennsylvania mine in Browns Valley, west of Grass Valley, is being rapidly completed by the Pennsylvania Mining and Investment Company, controlled by eastern and Nevada interests. With the completion of the 50 foot head frame and installing of mine machinery, arrangements have now been made for deeper work.

The shaft, which is 165 feet deep, has been cleaned out and repaired. Good ore is reported showing in the mine. Plans are to sink the shaft to the 200 foot level and then drift along the vein system.

About 20 men are employed. Albert Burch, consulting engineer, has had a wide experience in mining in the state of Nevada.

HISTORY MUSEUM OPENED BY N. D. G. W. IN CITY LIBRARY

The Native Sons and Native Daughters Joint Historic Musuem in the library building was opened for visitors last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Miles D. Coughlin is chairman of the committee of Native Daughters and was present to explain and display the exhibits which are deeply interestting to those who enjoy the many objects in use in an earlier day. The museum will be open each Wednesday afternoon from two to four o'clock each week during the summer.

Among the recent contributions of early day antiques added to the collection are a strong box from the pioneer stage coach days, donated by J. W. O'Neill, and two English-made muzzle-loading shotguns preguns were used for protection in the sented by E. M. Rector. These shotold Citizens Bank. Mrs. Antha Locklin presented a pretty, little, old chair that came from an old Negro church that was located near her home.

EDUCATION BOARD TO MEET

There is to be a meeting of the County Board of Education next Saturday to correct papers of the 8th grade pupils who took tests May 7th and 8th. Another examination will be given 8th grade pupils May 28 and 29 for the schools closing in June.

Jack C. Norton, of Gold Flat, returned home Wednesday from a few days spent in Sacramento.

SEARCHERS FAIL TO FIND MISSING DITCH TENDER

The search for Eugene B. Palmer, ditch tender for the Yuba Gold Corporation, who dissappeared Monday from Washington, was practically abandoned yesterday afternoon, after a crew of 50 men and boys, many of them from the Grass Valley CCC camp had combed thoroughly every foot of country adjacent to Scotchman's Creek where the last traces of Palmer were found.

It is now believed that Palmer has left the country. It is not regarded as likely that he fell into the Yuba and drowned or that any other accident happened to him. It is considered probable that he is suffering from amnesia. Three solid days of searching have failed to reveal any trace of him save to discover the spot where he ate his lunch last Monday.

HEY KIDS! PET SHOW COMES OFF ON MAY 19!

At the last Parent Teacher Association meeting, it was decided to hold their Pet Show Saturday, May 19, and Mrs. W. C. Perry was elected as general chairman.

The show of the pets will take place in the sheds just back of the grammar school building. Each child must make his entry two days before the show, with his teacher. The parade will start at two o'clock. Mrs. Clem Davis is in charge of the parade. Messrs. Walter Carlson, J. C. McGinnis and Joe O'Neill, are assisting in every way to make the affair a success. They will select the judges, make posters and entry blanks.

Blue ribbons are to be given for the best of each breed. A prize is to be given for the most unique pet; two will be given for the best groomed and trained pets. Canaries will be exhibited inside the building. Rabbits, cats, ducks or chickens must be in screened cages. Dogs, goats, sheep or other similar pets must be on a leash. Mrs. Carl Tobiassen is in charge of the show.

In addition to the pet show there is to be an exhibit of home made quilts and bed-spreads and all kinds of needlework. Mesdames W. E. Young, Will Sharp and C. E. Martz, are in charge of the fancy work exhibit.

Refreshments are to be served in the afternoon with Mrs. Eva Crawford in charge.

Each child that enters a pet receives a free ticket, and all other children will be charged five cents; admission for adults will be 25 cents and this takes in all exhibits and refreshments.

The last council meeting of the season of the Placer-Nevada county association was held in Auburn yesterday. Mesdames Elza Kilroy, Leland Smith, Lester Gregory, A. A. Price and Godfrey of Nevada City attended the meeting.

TO MARK DEDICATION OF AIRPORT BY CACHET

The Nevada City Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a cachet on July 4th, at which time it is expected the new Nevada City airport is to be dedicated.

This is a comparatively new fad and has been taken up very extensively by many stamp collectors.

W. H. Griffiths, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, has been receiving cachets for some time and it is expected that there will be hundreds of these letters mailed here to receive the cachet from this new airport.

Gerald Hogan, student of pharmacy at the University of California, returned home Wednesday for his summer vacation.

COMMITTEE TO DECIDE WHETHER TO CELEBRATE

A committee of five, appointed Tuesday evening by President Fred F. Cassidy of the Chamber of Commerce, will determine whether or not Nevada City will hold a Fourth of July celebration, and if so, what kind of a celebration it will be.

This committee consists of Fred E. Conner, chairman, Carl J. Tobiassen, Walter Carlson, Cary Arboogast and Carrol Coughlan.

Chairman Conner announced that the committee will meet this evening in the Chamber of Commerce, formulate a report and present it to a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to be called within a few days.

FIREMEN OPPOSED

President Cassidy stated that he thought there should be some kind of a Fourth of July celebration. R. R. Goyne said that at a meeting of firemen recently the majority voted against a celebration involving a parade and fireworks. The firemen, he said, were naturally opposed to fireworks as increasing the fire hazard, and the parade cost too much money with no adequate return to the merchants called upon to donate the funds.

Ernest Schreiber held the same view as Goyne, and Myers Mobley declared visitors who came to Nevada City's Fourth celebration brought their tanks full of gas and their lunches, enjoyed the spectacle and departed without spending anything.

PICNIC AT AIRPORT PROPOSED

Former Mayor R. J. Bennetts believed that a great picnic at the airport, and a dedication of the new anding field and the municipal swimming pool, which will undoubtedly be completed by that time, might attract not only the residents here but many of those who formerly lived here.

W. H. Griffiths suggested that by July 4, it was probable that the new Ski club house would be under construction and suggested that on the night of July Fourth, a big dance be held there on the new floor.

Ed Uren also believed that the Fourth might be celebrated by a barbecue or camp stew at the airport or the new municipal swimming pool, with whatever dedication ceremonies might be appropriate.

The matter was finally left in the hands of the above mentioned committee.

Representatives of the Western Mining News asked for the Chamber's endorsement of their project "California Gold Year, 1935," which was given in the form of a resolution. President Cassidy stated that this project had the support and approval of some of the most conservative mining operators and business men of the county.

SKI CLUB HOUSE

There was a discussion of the financing of the Ski club house and it was the concensus of opinion that there should be a meeting of committees from the Grass Valley and Nevada City chambers with the executive committee of the Ski club to plan for this building immediately. It was recognized that the $1200 insurance money, received following the burning of the old club house, was not sufficient to complete the building and methods of raising funds must be considered.

AIRPORT PLANS

Regarding the airport, it was determined to appeal to Congressman Harry L. Englebright, in an effort to speed completion. Conflicting reports of the conditions under which work will proceed on this enterprise, were made. Former Mayor Bennetts had been assured that the airport will be completed, but as regards to funds and the time when work will be resumed, he had no information. Attention was called by Mr. Uren to reports in several of the metropolitan newspapers that an entirely new method will be used, namely, communities must supply the labor while Federal funds will be available for materials. It was admitted, however, that no official communication to this effect had been received by the city officials.

George H. Calanan returned Wednesday from a business visit in San Francisoo of a few days.

RED LACQUER FOR THE "SPIRIT OF '33

"Now what could he want with four quarts of red lacquer?" It was Ben Hall speaking at the last city council meeting, as he persued a bill handed in by Chief Robson. The other councilmen raised their eyebrows and murmured variously: "Red lacquer? But the fire hydrants need no paint." "Red lacquer? What next?"

Then it developed that the red lacquer had been used instead of red paint to cover the huge double bob sled that took the 60 volunteers who worked on clearing the N. I. D. ditches of the snow and ice in Feb. 1933, so that this city, undergoing a water famine, could get water down into its reservoirs.

The big sled has been christened "The Spirit of Thirty Three." A lot of volunteer work and materials went into its making, and it was completely born ready to function between 6 o'clock in the evening and 12 midnight, and did go into action early the next morning. The Nevada County Lumber Co., gave the timbers of which it is constructed. Ed Christianson and the Miners Foundary, gave the iron and did the work of putting the big snow boat together.

Then having done its work of hauling several loads of 60 men up to the stopped ditch, behind a county tractor loaned by Supervisor Cary Arbogast, it was left in the weeds along Spring street, until one day recently Chief Robson noticed it checking in the sun, unpainted and left to ruin.

Robson got busy. The firemen who had led the forlorn hope in the heavy winter of a year ago, and did finally get the city water enough to drink, thought it should be painted and drawn in out of the sun. And one Sunday recently, Chief Robson, Herb Hallett, Bud Sharp, Elza Kilroy and Nick Sandow, took four buckets of red lacquer and gave the big sled a thorough coat of paint. There may never be another water famine. But in any event Nevada City's firemen are prepared to fight it if it comes.

WOMAN HELD TO ANSWER FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Mrs. Margaret Nevins, of Grass Valley, was held to answer before Justice of the Peace Oscar Winburn on a charge of drunken driving. She was arrested May 4 by Traffic Officer George Hammill on the Auburn road, some miles below Grass Valley. She was arraigned yesterday before Superior Judge Tuttle. Lacking bail of $1,000 she was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Thomas Scadden, mining man, of North Columbia, was a Nevada City visitor Tuesday.

Veterans Of Foreign Wars Parade Tonight

CALANAN TOLD AIRPORT WILL BE COMPLETED

George Calanan, returning Wednesday from a trip to San Francisco, brings the cheering report that the Nevada City Airport is to be completed. He visited the office of Capt. Dooling, at the head of Federal aviation in California, who has always evinced a keen interest in Nevada City's airport and was very cordially received by the officials there.

Mr. Calanan was assured that all the data, plans, maps, and ground and aerial pictures of the Nevada City airport were on file there and that it was only a matter of a short time before means would be provided for completing the work.

The keenest interest in the airport was displayed. The Nevada City Airport is regarded as one of major importance in this part of the State.

NEWMONT PAYS MINERS $50,000 BONUS CHECKS

Close to $50,000 in good will checks was released into the hands of miners employed by the Empire-Star Mines Company, Ltd., a subsidiary of the Newmont Mining Company, Tuesday, when the men were given their second bonus checks in six months.

The checks, amounting to $50 in most cases, were given to approximately 1,000 men, who are employed in the mines operated by the Empire-Star Company. Some of the miners, new in the employ of the company, received lesser amounts varying with the length of time of employment.

The miners in five major mines of the Grass Valley-Nevada City area are benefited by the company's gift. The mines under the control of the Empire-Star Company are the Empire, North Star, and Pennsylvania, in the Gras Valley district, the Murchie mine, near Nevada City, and the Zeibright mine in Bear Valley.

ORIENTAL MINE OUTPUT $45,000

The mill of the Oriental-Gold Star Mining Company, at Alleghany, is now operating with three shifts. The monthly yield of bullion is reported to exceed $45,000. A substantial tonnage of good mill ore has been developed in the main workings of the group, with crosscuts and drifts on the 1300 foot level, disclosing lower grade ore reserves in virgin territory. Several months were spent in diamond drill explorations which have demonstrated the existence of important deposits below the productive workings.

Indications in the development work point to many years of profitable activity.

William Hooten, superintendent, passed through Nevada City recently enroute to San Francisco, and while here displayed "jewelry rock" ore from a strike in the mine.

Bert Austin, son of County School Superintendent Ella M. Austin, is the engineer.

SIERRA CITY GROUP OF MINES TO BE SAMPLED

A mining deal of much interest in the last few weeks was the talking over for sampling of the Phoenix, Young America and Mountain mine on Sardine Lake above Sierra City, by G. W. Starr, H. R. Plate and a couple of San Francisco investors.

In the early days a sheepherder while tending his flocks, discovered the Young America and it was claimed to be fabulously rich.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, 7th and 8th. districts, will hold a combination Inter-County meeting and rally in this city under the auspices of Banner Mountain Post tonight.

The rally will start promply at 7:30, with a big parade. The parade will be led by an officer from the California highway patrol office in Grass Valley followed by massed colors of the different organizations and the Boy Scouts. Following these will be the Nevada City high school band of 42 pieces, led by Mr. L. E. Sweeney. After the band will come the different Posts led by their respective commanders. There are several drum and bugle corps coming from Sacramento to take part, as well as the Nevada City Boy Scouts.

Following the parade there will be a meeting of the "Golden Poppy" Inter-County Council at the Odd Fellows hall, with George Perry, of New Castle, commander in charge. At the present time there are four counties represented in the council, namely, Nevada, Placer, Sacramento and Yolo.

Following this, there will be a meeting open to the public, (about 9:45) with Commander Earl Raymond of the local Post in charge. There will be a number of candidates obligated at this time. The principal speaker for this occasion will be Edward M. Seacord, of San Jose, Dept., Sr., Vice-Commander. It is urged that the general public as well as veterans attend this meeting as Mr. Seacord bears a messageof importance to every one.

Directly following the parade, the band and Boy Scouts will be taken in by the Auxiliary to the local Post, with Mrs. Ward as chairman, where they will go directly to the Pythian Castle to a feast which will be awaiting them. The line of march of the parade will be as follows: It will form at the junction of East and West Broad Street. Down Broad Street to the Plaza, thence up Commercial street to Pine, up Pine to Cottage, over Cottage to Broad, down Broad to the Odd Fellows hall, where it will break up. The Veterans request every one to aid in the regulation of traffic, and to refrain from double parking between 7 and 8.

The evening will close with a banquet in honor of the visiting posts.

The veterans also request that every one who is on that line of march, especially the merchants on Broad street to display a falg as a token of good will to the visiting Veterans.

METHODIST CHURCH TO OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day will be appropriately observed in the services of the Methodist church, sunday. There will be a program celebrating mother's Day in the Sunday school. The Rev. Buckner will preach a Mother's Day sermon at the morning service. Miss Teft will sing.

In the evening a Mother's Day program will be given, featured by tableaus, to the accompaniment of music and reading.

A group of young people Sunday afternoon will conduct services at North San Juan, at 3 o'clock at Middle Fork and 7:30 o'clock at Forest.

ALUMINUM INSULATION FOIL IS DEMONSTRATED

A group of men interested in the building industry gathered, on Monday evening at the invitation of Fred E. Conner, manager of the Nevada County Lumber Company, to listen to a talk by Glenn Vance of the Reynolds Metal Company.

His subject was: "Reynold's Metallation." He explained the use of aluminum foil for building insulation. He stated that the principal involved in this method is the reflection of radiant heat and demonstrated that it did not conduct heat and was also practically fire proof. Another feature of it he stated was that it was vermine proof. After Mr. Vance had answered the questions of those present Manager Conner served refreshments to the gathering before they dispersed.

CAMPTONVILLE

By ACTON M. CLEVELAND

CAMPTONVILLE, May 6.—Fire Guard Albert H. Hamilton, met with a painful accident Friday when he ran a pine needle into his eye, and had to go to Nevada City for medical attention. The injury is not serious and he will recover.

Leonard L. Bishop, an employee of the Grant and Heether Lumber Company, was unable to work several days last week due to a large and painful boil on the knee.

CONSTABLE RESIGNS

CAMPTONVILLE, May 4.—Constable A. H. Behrens, who has been in office for the past six years, has tendered his resignation to the Yuba County Board of Supervisors to take effect July 1st. Aspirants for the vacant position should file applications with the County Clerk for appointment for the unexpired term.

S. F. CHINATOWN WILL ENTERTAIN CALIF. TEMPLARS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—San Francisco's world famous Chinatown, the largest Chinese community outside of the Orient, will give Knights Templar attending the 39th Triennial Conclave to be held here July 7th, to 13th., one of the most unique entertainments ever staged for any convention.

A citizens' committee, headed by G. B. Lau, president of the Bank of Canton and of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, and including about a score oof prominent Chinese Masons, is working up an elaborate and colorful day-by-day entertainment for San Francisco's Knights Templar guests.

Chinatown itself, is to be elaborately decorated after the most festive fashion of festival-loving Chinese. There will be streamers and flags across famous Grant Avenue, the main thoroughfare of Chinatown, known to tourists all over the world. Each street lamp standard is to be decorated and every merchant will put forth his greatest art in the decoration of his shop and bazaar.

In Waverly Place an open air theater is to be constructed where nightly Chinese entertainment and band concerts will be given. Every effort will be put forth to give the Knights Templar visitors the feeling and atmosphere of old China. In Chinatown's restaurants and cafes ablaze with lights, will be found the mysterious cuisine of Asia.

There will be girls from the Chinese Y. W. C. A., in quaint garb to guide the women visitors and committees of men from the Chinese Chamber of Commerce to conduct the Knights Templar in a tour of that part of Chinatown not always on the professional guide's route.

UNEVEN TRAVEL

When a car develops a tendency to weave or wander from one side of the road to the other, a careful check should be made to find the cause, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. Some of the common causes, excluding heavy wind which may cause the car to pull to one side only, are tires not evenly inflated, insufficient caster (tilt or inclination to the rear) in the front axle, bent steering parts, lack of lubrication; or steering parts adjusted too tightly.

SHERIFF MAKES HAPPY CANDY HUNGRY BOY

CAMPTONVILLE, May 7.—While Sheriff Charles J. McCoy, of Marysville, was in town Saturday on official business, and in the store, treating some of his old friends, a small boy came in to make a purchase. The boy came to purchase a package of Epsom salts which cost 15c, but had only 10c to buy it with, and 3c with which to get candy for himself. While pondering as to how he was going to complete the transaction satisfactorily, the Sheriff tossed a nickel on the candy case to treat the boy to some candy. The boy, seeing a way to accomplish his desired purpose, picked up the nickel, bought the salts, and had his 3c left for candy, and grinned a happy word of thanks to the Sheriff for this financial assistance.

FOURTH DISTRICT SUPERISOR ASKS TO RETAIN POST

Supervisor Joseph Frank, known to all the folks in the southwestern part of the county as "Joe," announces his desire reelection from the Fourth Supervisorial District in today's issue of the Nevada City Nugget.

He has served 16 years in that capacity, during which time he has conscientiously followed a road construction proogram that has converted the narrow roads of this district into good graveled primary roads, wide enough for two autos to pass each other. This condition prevails in every portion of his district.

The fourth supervisorial district covers an area extending west from Grass Valley to the Yuba county line and north from Bear River to Cherokee, an area of diversified conditions and winding mountain roads leading from the valleys and plains to the higher elevations.

But regardless of where they are, these roads are first class and have been kept so by Mr. Frank. He is a man who even while directing his employes, can not stand by and watch them work, but he turns in himself and throws the dirt with the best of them, setting them an example of industry and efficiency.

While, like all supervisors, roads are his main care, he is progressive and any movement for the benefit of the county at large, has his active support.

On his record as a supervisor, he asks return to the board to represent a district where he was born and reared and has spent his entire life.

U. C. ENGINEERS AT EARTH'S ENDS

BERKELEY, May 10.—If you are a graduate of the University of California, or if you ever attend the state university, the chances are nine to one that you will have your permanent home in this state for the rest of your life.

On the other hand, if you are included in the ten per cent who leave the state, there is an excellent possibility that you will wind up in Lapland, Thibet, the Cameroons, Argentina, the Malay States, Russia or the Aleutian Islands.

These facts have been uncovered by the California Alumni Association in collecting information for a geographical directory of alumni to be published in September, according to Robert Sibley, executive manager of the association. This is the first time in 18 years since 1916, that university graduates have been so classified.

Information for the directory which is being collected reveals that 92.08 per cent of the alumni of the university remain in California all their lives. Of the 7.92 per cent who wander afield, 6.42 per cent scatter themselves around forty-seven states, while the 1.50 per cent abroad turn up in many of the remote and sparsly settled areas of the world. Sibly attributes the wide scattering of foreign alumni to the fact that those who go abroad are to a great extent engineers, missionaries, and in foreign governmental or diplomatic service, and also because the university has for a long time had a large proportion of foreign students sent here by their countires for special study.

Another interesting fact which emerged from the alumni association's survey is that former university students for the great part not only remain in California, but approximately 80 per cent figuratively never leave the shadow of the Campanile, remaining within 25 miles of the Berkeley campus.

LOOSE HUB CAPS

Some of the larger snap-on type of hub caps will become loose occasionally and cause an annoying rattle, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. In most instances this trouble can be eliminated by cutting a rubber band from an old inner tube and placing it around the shoulder of the hub cap before pressing it into place.

ANGELS CAMP TO RESUME JUMPING FROG JUBILEE

ANGELS CAMP, May 10—A graphic display of the methods of mining from the earliest period down to the present day, with machinery on exhibition while in actual operation is planned in conjunction with the Jumping Frog Jubilee May 19-20.

This is announced by Ben H. Carlow, chairman of the minerals and mining committee of the Jumping Frog Jubilee. Carlow says the idea has met with hearty response and that the success of the feature is almost assured.

All of the counties of the Mother Lode, will display their mineral wealth, and various other minerals of commercial value found in the mountain counties.

A statement issued by Carlow reads:

We are attempting to aid the cause by attracting attention to the mineral wealth existing throughout the Mother Lode area by inter-county mineral displays showing gold, gold bearing ore, and other minerals of commercial value found in the mountain counties.

According to Carlow, the exhibit will remain intact for one week so that mine operators and owners will have an opportunity of viewing the machinery exhibits.

CAMPTONVILLE WEATHER

CAMPTONVILLE, May 3.—The monthly weather report for this section as compiled by Elmer S. R. Hall, local observer for the U. S. Department of Agriculture Weather Bureau at the P. G. & E. Mill near here, shows very little precipitation for the month of April A total rainfall of 2.86 inches is recorded, with the greatest amount of 1.23 on the 23. No snowfall for the month is noted. The maximum temperature of the month was recorded on the 11th., at 82 degrees, with a minimum of 32 degrees on the 3rd. Three electrical storms for the month on the 23, 24, and the 30th. Snow fell at a slightly higher elevation on Monday night.

"PINGING" MOTOR

When a motor knock or "ping" develops after several thousand miles of driving it may be traced to carbon accumulation in the combustion chamber, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. This condition will be particularly noticeable in a high compression motor if anti-knock fuel is not used. Carbon should be removed at regular intervals.

LUMBER TALKS

Summer comes with flowers gay,
Flies and other things;
Gnats there are, mosquitoes too,
Testing out their wings.
We've no time to swat the pests—
But we can out-smart 'em;
And with ease and confidence
From their victims part 'em.

A. M. C.

At this time of year our thoughts turn to screened doors and windows, and to jobs of painting which have been unduly deferred.

Screens at doors and windows, the screed-in porch and summer house insure health, comfort and pleasure for the entire family, and the out smarting of insect pests.

Paint for walls, roof, fences and other exposed surfaces safe guards the owner from depreciation caused by bright sunlight, and adds greatly to his pride of possession.

Twin Cities are attracting much attention now, indeed that is true of the entire county, many guests will trend this way during the summer months, and it should be our pleasure to present a pleasing appearance alike to friends and casual observers.

You will find in our stocks all materials needed for the seasonal tasks. Whether you call, phone, or write, your orders will receive our courteous attention.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—There is a rising tide of belief here in Washington that President Roosevelt's policies are leaning more and more away from the things that marked them as the "New Deal," a year ago. It can be doubted no longer that he is veering away to some extent from the experimentation that constituted the program advanced by the myriads of professors with whom he surrounded himself at the start of his administration. Professors are not carrying the water on their shoulders that they did awhile ago, and it has been noted that Mr. Roosevelt is less and less willing to leap before he looks.

Turning Conservative

Upon the cut of the fabric at this time, I believe the consensus to be, that Mr. Roosevelt is turning to a more stable, as distinguished from a theoretical, foundation for the future. The developments have been predicated apparently on a swing in public sentiment. Obviously, without public sentiment behind any plan, there will be a dearth of confidence. By all and sundry, it is said the President is seeking to establish confidence. Most of all, and finally, it seems he has arrived at the necessity for winning confidence of business people, big and little, so that distinct changes can be expected through the summer when congress is not here to worry him.

Doubtless, the trend towards the conservative instead of the more radical course he followed earlier, is due to the fact that the bulk of the people now feel they have a right to state objections. Surely, objections are being stated to a greater extent than at any time since he took office. In other words, the theories of the professors have proved bad in spots, and any nation of ambitious people eventually will tire of preachments. The danger is that the pendulum will swing too far, and that the good and practicable things of the New Deal may be washed out by a wave of conservatism and reaction.

There are numerous things to which attention may be called in demonstrating that Mr. Roosevelt is not going to experiment too much in the future. His flat-footed stand against nationalization of silver is one. His determination to tinker no further with the currency is another. A third indication is the President's decision to see that the capital goods or durable goods industry can have some relief, and another intimation is the way congress has acted about the legislation to control the security exchanges. The President could have made congress put teeth in the stock exchange bill if he wanted to do so. But he has held off. Likewise, he has taken a position against payment of deposits in closed banks by use of inflationary schemes. All of these things are the vehicles of those who would go far on the radical courses.

Mr. Roosevelt has not stressed NRA expansion as his radical followers thought he was going to press it. Those who conceived NRA still do not admit that NRA has ground down the little businesses in the interest of the big ones, but Mr. Roosevelt apparently sees it. He is represented in high places as hoping that the NRA board of review will show up the weaknesses of the codes so that modifications can be made where necessary. Many of the "NRA crowd," as they have come to be known here, are disgruntled about it. They think that NRA, like the king, can do no wrong. Being a keen student and a master psychologist, Mr. Roosevelt sees those things and he has taken hold of them apparently before they have become so bad as to destroy whatever benfits that may accrue.

What is the cause for the change in the scenery? There are two reasons of which I hear discussion most frequently. Many of the plans were too idealistic for use universally among a practical people, and, the second, there is a tendency to write "Thou shalt not" into too much legislation and regulation for carrying out the recovery program.

Too Idealistic

The American people, as I judge them, will obey orders that change their lives around for just so long. Then, they blow up in a big way.

For an example of what I mean, the congress recently passed the so-called Bankhead bill that will limit the production of cotton in the United States to ten million bales annually. It is compulsory. Unless a cotton farmer agrees to reduce his acreage and comply with the other terms of the law, "thou shalt not" market what is grown without the payment of a heavy tax, a tax so burdensome as to remove any possibility of profit. Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill and gave it his blessing, but I heard any number of newspaper correspondents and observers remark when they read his statement that he was saying merely that he "hoped" it would be of some value. Surely, he did not predict its success.

All through the various recovery laws and regulations, one finds so many "Thou shalt nots" that one of the eastern metropolitan newspapers printed a cartoon, captioned "Dreams of Forgotten Age." The chief character in the cartoon was that figure so famous as representing "Prohibition."

The thought behind the cartoon was deeper in the minds of some than just the humor and lesson that it portrayed. Therein was a story of "too much Washington." Sooner or later, unless I have misread my history, there is to be a broadside of reaction rise up against "too much Washington" in the way lives are lived. The current period seems to be the high point, but it had its beginning. In my opinion, when the Constitutional amendment was adopted providing for direct election of senators. That was followed some years later by enactment of the law creating the Federal Farm Loan system, and then during the last decade we saw other things of the same type put through by congress. President Hoover proposed the Reconstruction Finance corporation and President Roosevelt expanded that and a lot of other things. The result: Regulations, red tape, dictation, orders, countless agents, inspectors, investigators, examiners, and much amateurish administration of the decree "Thou shalt not."

There was, if you pause to remember, a general disgust with the steady procession of indictments, arrests and trials of minor liquor law violators.

Causes Irritation

Even consistent and conscientious supporters of prohibition now and then burst forth against the administration of it when men and women, otherwise respectable in their communities, were convicted as criminals because they dared to take a drink.

The Department of Agriculture supplied the newspaper correspondents with an announcement a few days ago that two men in South Dakota had been arrested and had pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with the 1933 emergency hog buying program. The announcement described the case as "of national importance and interest as similar fraud cases are pending in other federal courts," under this and other emergency programs handled by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

It will be recalled that there was quite a bit of cheating in the administration of CWA job planning. There was some stench, too, in the handling of seed loans in two or three parts of the country, and there is plenty of complaint about some window-box farmers who have been drafting regulations in AAA. NRA has been under fire from time to time because, in some instances, vast industries were compelled to sit across a table in drafting a code with a man who had had no experience whatsoever in that industry.

So what wonder is it that a man will do as one about whom I heard. He boasted about being a chiseler. That is, among friends, he said: "Of course, I am a chiseler. Of course, I am making money out of this code. But the reason I am doing it is because I am thinking of the next few years when the tax collector is going to take virtually all of the profits I make to pay up for this waste."

In my roaming around in Washington, I find more and more people who are asking which of the two major political parties, the Democrats or the Republicans, is going to have courage enough to pull the government back to Washington as a government, and allow the people to run their own business?

It is important to record, in this connection, that the Department of Agriculture already has taken a step in the direction of allowing private business to run its own affairs by its announcement that government control of dairy production is not to be attempted at this time. From the information I have been able to pick up here and there in high places, I suspect that dairy production control is never going to be attempted, but Secretary Wallace's announcement said only that control would not be attempted "for the present."

Looks Like Backtracking

One can only guess whether this is the beginning of a trend, a backtracking, from the governmental control extreme to which some of the professors would like to have gone. They advanced the control idea to the ultimate in the Bankhead compulsory cotton production control law and they have pushed the control principle almost as far in wheat, tobacco, corn and hog industries. With regard to the dairy business, however, they ran into difficulties. The stumbling blocks and obstacles met in that attempt illustrate better than anything that I know that industries in the United States have interests too divergent to permit of a universal regulation. I mean by that: practices and problems vary in every locality and there are few industries which can be lined up under the same rules of operation without some of them being handicapped and others profiting unduly.

The dairy industry gave proof of this fact, according to the announcement by Mr. Wallace which said there would be no attempt to undertake a production control program without the support of a substantial majority of the industry.

Fashion Takes to Lavish Pleating

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT'S news? Pleating, if you please, just miles and miles of it clambering up and down and around fashionable dresses and blouses and wraps. Seems as if everything pleatable is being pleated. Why, even the newest straw hats have their brims pleated, while this season's smartest gloves take unto themselves wide pleated flare cuffs. And have you seen those cunning little shoulder capes which are simply a mass of tier-upon-tier of fine pleatings, either lace or ribbon, or whatnot?

As to pleated neckwear and accessories there's no end to the frothy, billowy, lively and pert little pleatings which are enmassing about throat and shoulders and arms and wrists, at the same time ranging themselves up and down blouse fronts under the guise of jabots.

However, these little pleatings are but a mere prologue to the deluge of more pretentious pleatings which is rapidly descending upon modern fashionland. The real drama of pleatings begins with the new skirt-depth pleats which are being worked skillfully into spreading trains and graceful panels and winged effects and such. In one or two instances of Paris evening modes the entire skirt has been pleated in soft Grecian sculpturesque lines.

In the lovely dinner gown created of a heavy sheer in a rich orange tone, as worn by the standing figure in the accompanying illustration, Patou achieves the sprightly back movement which is so featured this season, via pleated and stiffened winglike effects which develop into floor-length pleated panels at each side. A little matching pleated cape sums up the situation with infinite grace.

When Paris couturiers decide to make pleating their theme they pleat lavishly. Especially is this penchant for pleating expressed in evening and party frocks which are fashioned of stiffened net or lace or sheer mousseline de soie. These dainty gowns which so eloquently bespeak the return of the truly feminine mode fairly bristle with tiers and tiers of sprightly frills and ruches formed of pleatings.

Not that evening fashions have a monopoly on pleated fantasies, not at all. Just to demonstrate how cleverly pleating used in a trimming way is entering into the daytime mode, we present in the picture a very charming sports frock made of a lightweight woolen which might be in any of the delectable pastel shades which are on the new color card, dusty pink for instance or aqua blue or in one of the very recent yellowish hues. As a matter of fact the original of the model pictured is in an attractive gray. The self-fabric pleating describes the new shoulder and neckline silhouette.

Now that fashion is in such a decided mood for pleating there are rumors in the air that the all-around pleated skirt for daytime wear is due for a revival. The few models which have been shown are tactfully worked with the thought in mind to preserve slender figure-fitting lines to the knee where the pleats throw off all restraint and flare as much as they please. This is accomplished by flatly stitching the pleats down at the top. It is said that this type of skirt is destined to become very important in connection with the long tunic blouse which has "arrived" in smart circles.

NEW SHOULDER LINE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The print frock topped with a full length coat in solid tone is a fashion favorite this season. The costume pictured is a Schiaparelli model. The color scheme is very choice and distinctive in that the print is developed in brown, gray and beige, the woolen coat being in the latter color. The rounded shoulder line here sponsored by Schiaparelli is achieved through skillfully maneuvered tucks. The one-button fastening at the waistline is in tune with the new movement. The rolled rather than flat revers also carry a style message. The knitted hat is called "Flirt."

Pleats for Juniors

For junior wear, the English type of frock, plaited from the shoulder and belted at the normal waistline, is a current favorite.

OXFORD SHOE LEADS LIST OF FAVORITES

The oxford shoe is queen for spring, but such a modified oxford! The two-eyelet type gives the effect of a pump; when more eyelets are used there's often a strap feeling, but it's quite a new version of strapping. As formerly worn, the strap slipper seems to be out, though there are a few attractive models for women who hate to change their fashion habits too quickly.

Heels on daytime shoes are leather covered and have a dainty, airy quality, but they are firmly balanced for sane walking. On spectator sports footwear they're usually of built-up leather.

Pumps have been modified for style and comfort with a tiny gore, covered with delicate, often shaded decoration, that stretches a little over the instep.

New Coats Are Featured by Variety of Fabrics

Variety is the spice of the spring coat array.

The wraps in which smart women will step out on those first warm days show more difference in fabric and cut than they have displayed for many seasons. They may be long or three-quarter length, buttoned from chin to hem or flying loose in the breeze, minus a single touch of fur or swathed on regal foxes.

They have one point in common, however. They are all youthful. Except for the more elaborate afternoon models they are simple in effect—if not in cut—and they hang on jaunty lines which speak of movement.

Brown Popular

Brown is becoming increasingly prominent for both daytime and evening wear. It is being featured in chiffon, mousseline de soie, taffeta, crepes and triple sheers.

Goatskin Hats

Narrow brimmed hats with pinched crowns are made of goatskin which simulates pigskin. These match up with sports coats of the same fabrics.

DUDLEY ASKS RETURN TO POST OF SUPERVISOR

Seldom has a county official come before the electors for return to office on a record of promises fulfilled and good work done than does E. B. (Brownie) Dudley, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, who announces his candidacy for reelection from the third supervisorial district in this issue of the Nevada City Nugget.

Mr. Dudley was born and reared in the district and has spent his entire life time there. He knows the needs of the district from every angle, and he has worked long and hard to have those needs fulfilled.

Regarding the county's fiscal and business affairs, probably no man in the county, has a wider and more practical knowledge that he.

Roads are the principal thought of every supervisor, and Dudley has had to do a lot of thinking to spread the small sum received from county taxes in his district over the more than 100 miles of roads therein to bring them to the high degree of excellence they are in today.

The property values of the district are less than those of any other in the county, and there are just as many miles of road in the district as in any of the others.

TWO HEAVY GRADES

There are two main arteries of travel in the district that during Supervisors Dudley's term have been put in the very best of condition. These are the Edward's grade from the north side of the South Yuba to Bloomfield, Graniteville and North Columbia, and the Washington grade, seven miles long from the highway to Washington.

Today there are no better mountain grades in the county than these. They are practically two-way roads, wide enough for automobiles to pass almost anywhere. They have been placed in the best of condition through his efforts.

It is hard, almost impossible, to build roads without equipment. Dudley started as a supervisor with a small amount of road-building machinery, and today he has accumulated tractors, scrapers, trucks and other machinery necessary to do his road work most economically.

When men are at work on the road and the supervisor is directing the work, he "takes a hand" himself to hurry it along.

When the Board of Supervisors reorganized in January 1933, the good work of Mr. Dudley as a member of the Board was recognized by his fellow members by his selection as chairman of the body, a position which had not been held by the member of the board from that district for nearly 30 years.

LAND FOR NEEDY RURAL FAMILIES

INDIANOPOLIS, May 10.—"If the destitute rural family needs a house, a cow, work implements, or what not—just go and do it," Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, told state relief directors from the Mid-west in conference here.

"We get all balled up because we get too formal about it," said Hopkins, "In fact, it is fairly simple. These destitute families must have some land, or some new land. You rent land, you buy land, you get land a hundred and one different ways. You dicker for land, and I can see that going on now, especially down South. All over the South.

"Another thing that we get too formal about, and get to scaring people to death," said the administrator, " is building a new house for a man, just a simple house. It is amazing how many of these people will build their own houses if they have half a chance. They can repair houses, they can put new roofs on.

"As for tools and equipment and livestock, the North Carolina Relief Administration bought a thousand mules last winter. They buy chickens, cows, and farm equipment that the family may need and they give it or lend it to the family, depending on what seems best."

Six hundred thousand farm families are on the relief rolls, and Mr. Hopkins said it is not likely they will acquire an "independent economy" merely by work on the land.

Anyhow, Here's A Plan For The Fourth

Tonight the committee appointed by President Cassidy of the Chamber of Commerce will meet to determine, first, whether we shall have a community Fourth of July celebration, and second, if it is determined we shall have one, what kind of a celebration it will be.

We offer this committee a plan, assuming that it will decide in favor of a celebration. And on this point, it should be said that even those opposed to the traditional parade and fireworks were pretty well agreed there should be a celebration of some sort.

First. Let us work toward a triple dedication on July Fourth, the Airport in the morning and noon, the Municipal Swimming Pool in the afternoon, and the Ski Club in the evening.

Second. Let us see to it that the cost is small, that the burden of the expense is limited to paying for a camp stew and coffee for the picknickers at the airport, to paying our own high school band for a morning and evening concert, to paying the expenses of a distinquished speaker, such as Judge John McLaughlin or Judge Peter Shields of Sacramento, to come here and deliver a Fourth of July oration of the old soul stirring type.

Third. Let every man and woman in Nevada City with friends and relatives in other parts of the State write them a cordial invitation to visit their old home town and see what its been doing the past year. Let the Chamber of Commerce, the Woman's Civic club and other civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations engage in this letter writing enterprise.

That's one plan briefly stated, that should not cost a great deal of money. That, however, is only one of its advantages.

The picnic at the airport on the top of Cement Hill plateau, will open the eyes of every one who comes to it, to the immense possibilities of this great project. It will give them a new view of Nevada City and its potentialities.

The municipal swimming pool will attract mainly the youth of the city and hundreds of visitors and give it a wide renown through Northern Califoornia. For the swimming pool is going to be one of the very best and most modern of its kind.

The dance on the new floor of the Ski club house will also attract mainly the young people for a hundred miles around. Admissions paid could easily amount to $500 net and this sum could be applied toward completing the Ski club house, which will certainly need it.

It may be pleaded that three dedications in one day are too many. As for that, if the events are properly advertised, it will not matter, because there will be immense crowds here at each of those events.

Or someone may say that none of these projects is likely to be completed. We submit that it does not matter much whether they are or not. The city council intends to have the swimming pool open before July first. Just so long as the youngsters can use it, it can be dedicated.

Several airplanes have already landed at the airport and airplane landings might be made a feature of the home coming picnic there.

As for the Ski club house, it would only be necessary to have the floor completed for the open aid dancing on the night of July Fourth.

This plan is offered respectfully to the committee. However, the Nugget stands ready to use its best endeavors to make any plan that the committee adopts, a success.

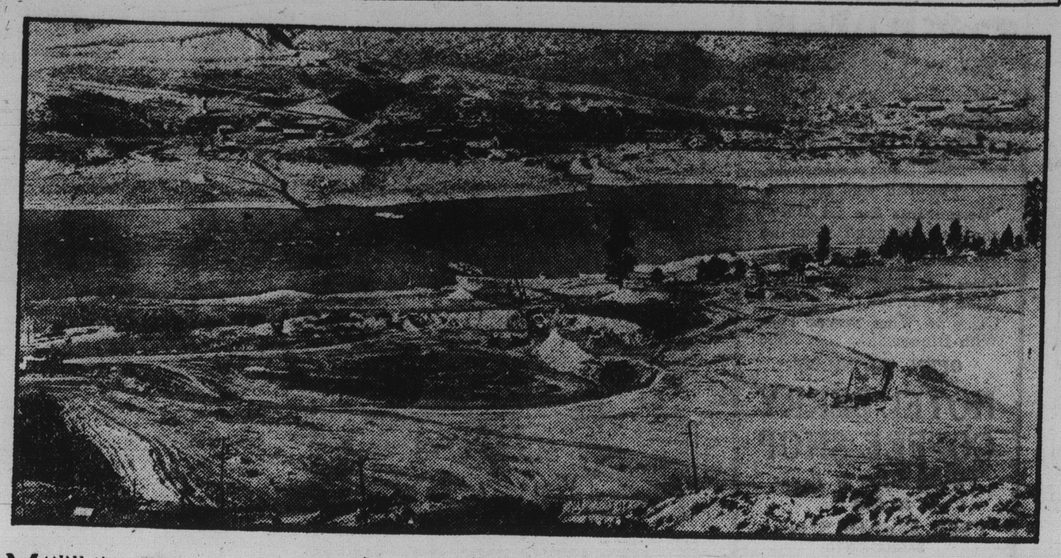
Site of the Grand Coulee Project on the Columbia



MORE than 4,000 men will be given jobs on the Grand Coulee project on the Columbia river in the state of Washington. This power development project which has been described as "the Muscle Shoals of the Northwest" is being built and will be operated by the federal government. The Public Works administration has made an allotment of $15,000,000 to the bureau of reclamation, Department of the Interior, to carry the work forward. The dam and power plant will cost about $63,000,000. The picture shows a portion of the east excavation. The dam will create a lake in the river 50 miles long. It will be built to a height of 335 feet. It is proposed to install eight generating units with a capacity of 700,000 horsepower.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE SQUEAKY VOICE

"WHO'S that?" Peter Rabbit pricked up his ears and stared up at the tops of the trees in the Old Orchard.

Instantly Jenny Wren popped her head out of her doorway. She cocked her head one side to listen, then looked down at Peter. "I don't hear any strange voice," she snapped. "The way you are staring, Peter Rabbit, one would think you were hearing something new and worth while."

Just then there were two or three sharp, squeaky notes from the top of one of the trees. "There!" cried Peter. "There! Didn't you hear that, Jenny Wren?"

"For goodness sake, Peter Rabbit, you don't mean to say that you don't know whose voice that is?" cried Jenny. "That's Rosebreast. I didn't suppose there was anyone who didn't know that sharp, squeaky voice. It rather gets on my nerves. What anybody wants to squeak like that for when he can sing as Rosebreast can, is more than I can understand."

At that very instant Mr. Wren began to scold as only he and Jenny can. Peter looked up at Jenny and winked slyly. "And what anyone wants to scold like that for when he can sing as Mr. Wren can is too much for me," retorted Peter. "But you haven't told me who Rosebreast is."

"Oh!" Cried Peter. "Isn't He Lovely?"

"The grosbeak of course, stupid!" sputtered Jenny. "If you don't know Rosebreast the Grosbeak, Peter Rabbit, you certainly must have been blind and deaf ever since you were born. Listen to that! Just listen to that song!"

Peter listened. That song was coming from the very tree from which had come those squeaky notes a few minutes before. Peter looked puzzled. "Do you mean Welcome Robin's song?" he asked sheepishly.

"No, I don't mean Welcome Robin's song," snapped Jenny. "What good are a pair of long ears if they can't tell one song from another? That song may sound something like Welcome Robin's, but it's different, and it's better That is Rosebreast singing, and there he is right in the top of that tree. Isn't he handsome?"

Peter looked up to see a bird nearly the size of Welcome Robin. His head, throat, and back were black. His wings had patches of white on them. But his breast made Peter catch his breath with a little gasp of admiration. It was a beautiful rose red. The rest of him underneath was white. It was Rosebreast the Grosbeak.

"Oh!" cried Peter. "Isn't he lovely?"

Mother's Cook Book

NEW DISHES

WITH macaroni, spaghetti and noodles pushing themselves into our menus from soup to dessert, we are obliged to note some new ways of serving these most wholesome foods, if we keep up to date.

Spaghetti Alaska.

Cook one-half pound of spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, cut into pieces and chill. Remove the bones and skin from a large can of salmon and shred into fine pieces Add one teaspoon of grated onion, one tablespoon of lemon juice, one-half cup of chopped celery and season to taste with salt. Pour boiling water over a package of lemon gelatin, using one cup of water, stir until dissolved, then add three-fourths of a cup of cold water and set aside to thicken. Mix one-third of a cup of mayonnaise with the salmon and gelatin and pour into a mold and chill. Whip one cup of cream until stiff, add two tablespoons of vinegar, salt and paprika and the cooked spaghetti. Unmold the salad and serve on a bed of lettuce with the spaghetti and cream in a ring around it. Sprinkle with paprika.

Fried Macaroni Slices.

For variety this makes a most tasty breakfast dish, served with broiled slices of bacon. Cook one-half pound of macaroni in salted water until tender. Drain and blanch, add two beaten eggs, one-half teaspoon of salt and one-half cup of milk. Press into a greased pan and bake in a hot oven for an hour. When cold unmold, slice and fry a golden brown.

Spaghetti Muffins.

Cook two ounces of spaghetti until tender, drain and cut into half-inch pieces. There should be three-fourths of a cup. Sift one-fourth of a cup of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, five teaspoons of baking powder and two cups of flour. Mix spaghetti with one beaten egg, three tablespoons of melted butter and one cupful of milk. Add the liquids to the dry ingredients and beat well. Bake in greased muffin pans in a hot oven for 30 minutes.

Honey Bee's Nativity

The Bee laboratory says that the common honey bee was not native to this continent, and that it was first introduced into the United States in Massachusetts between 1638 and 1640. Reports of the introduction of apiculture into the Southwest by the Spaniards earlier than these dates have never been verified.

Sheep in the Rain

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE sheep on the hillside are caught in the rain.
Like us they are powerless under its beat.
We push on the starter and struggle in vain
To climb the tall hill where the two roadways meet.
The car and its master, impatient and worn,
Seem helpless as sheep, and almost as forlorn.

But soon we will be at the top of the hill,
And the sheep without shelter will face the storm still.
Resigned to their fate, with a patience as vast
As the world, they will wait till the tempest is past.
They are wiser than we, for they know—the storm done—
Their Shepherd will send them his blessing—the Sun!

Noon Lunch and Dance Enliven High School

By EARLEY LEETE JR.

The high school's block N. C. organization promoted a tasty luncheon yesterday noon in the biology room. Mr. Barron sponsor of the athletic organization, was complimented for his business-like management of the affair, as well as for his superlative piano playing in the orchestra at the dance held following the luncheon.

At the luncheon, for which a nominal charge was made, the entree was tamale pie, supplemented by potato salad, beans, cake, punch, buns, and rolls. No one regreted eating at school.

After the lunch most of those present went to the study hall, where the floor was waxed for dancing, and Cecil Schiffner's four-piece orchestra all in readiness with Coach Barron at the piano, Frank Tuttle with his saxophone, and Verne Sandow at the drums.

The music was excellent. Almost everyone danced and everyone had a good time.

Sport Dance at High School Tonight

The Sophomore class of the high school is giving a "sport dance" tonight at 8:15 in the high school study hall.

Cookies and punch are to be served. The study hall will be decorated and a handsome door prize is to be awarded. Most unique dance programs have been planned by Miss Esther Tremaine, Sophomore class advisor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Meservy Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Meservey, who were married in Nevada Township on May 6, 1879, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary on Sunday, at their home on the lower Grass Valley road. Mr. and Mrs. Meservey have spent their entire married life in this county. Their many friends wish them continued happiness.
